HAVE YOU BEEN A FORMER VICTIM? Re FRAUDS—Farm Produce And Poultry

During the Christmas season complaints come to hand from farmers who have forwarded consignments of turkeys, and other fowl to firms in the city of Vancouver, in response to press advertising and mail circulars offering exceptional prices and other inducements.

The ultimate result in many instances is that the farmer receives nothing. All farmers are here advised not to send any produce to firms in Vancouver without having first made careful enquiries regarding the firm which they are shipping to.

Half truths and wrong conclusions, reply representatives of the oil industry in answer to claims of the head of a well known financial agency who recently claimed that fuel oil prices in a certain territory had been as exorbitantly high.

In his article he claimed that with a recent advance in price, fuel oil had been lifted 27 percent in three years. The reply was that his views, as he expressed them, gave an entirely erroneous survey of conditions in the oil industry. To keep the record straight the oil industry turned to a United States government record for May which showed that commodities covered in the general classification of "fuel and lighting" are 77.2 percent of the 1924 index of 100. All commodities are given a rating of 87.4. The index for the price of petroleum products is only 90.9 percent of the 1924 figure, the lowest of all industrial products listed.

Bituminous coal, which was mentioned in the article, is 96.5 and anthracite coal is 74.2. Gas and electricity with both of which consumers are not so unfavorably treated, are actually in excess of 80. At B21.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. STRANGE,
Searle Grain Company, Limited

"By selfish and short-sighted husbandry prairie farmers have ruined their land and ruined their soil for the future. Great Britain, therefore, can no longer rely upon Western Canada to supply her with foodstuffs, consequently, by means of traffic and other factors, British farmers must be protected and encouraged to increase their home production of wheat and other foods."

These are studied statements that have been made recently over and over again by Mr. A. G. Street, former Manitoba home dealer, noted English farmer and distinguished writer of novels on agricultural subjects.

Mr. Street's articles appeared in the "Financial Post" of Toronto, and in the "London Daily Telegraph," they were broadcast by radio over Great Britain and then published in the "Listener," the British Broadcasting Corporation's journal.

If one regard Mr. Street's statements as a definite libel on Western Canada, and on our prairie farmers. The statements are simply untrue.

Our farmers are not soil miners—they are not ruining the land—they are good husbandmen. Careful investigations made into rainfall and yields by the Research Department of the Searle Grain Company indicate clearly that when ever our prairies enjoy good rains, then do our fields once again become fertile, and yield up bountiful crops.

With the country side covered with a blanket of snow it looks very much like winter had come. The exceptional fine fall gave the urban and rural citizens every opportunity to make repairs to buildings, get in coal, and make other necessary alterations around the home for winter comfort.

In the evening of November eleventh the first fall of snow appeared in this immediate district, and has continued at intervals until about five or six inches has fallen. Up to November eleventh the weather was gorgeous, with the gophers out taking advantage of the lovely warm sunshine. The present fall of snow does not stop the livestock from helping themselves to the fodder in the fields.

The Big Interests

One is sometimes tempted to wonder why those so-called old fashioned virtues—thrift, hard work, prudence and integrity, are so frequently anathema to nowadays and discounted as something that is out-moded and therefore, if not actually to be abhorred, at least something to be ashamed of. Despite the fact that history, and particularly comparatively recent history, abounds with the names of men who from little or nothing have built up great industries, have risen to wealth or power, by the application of those virtues, plus ability and foresight, it would appear as if they were to be condemned, and the capitalistic "system" which in combination with a democratic form of government gives the poor boy an opportunity to rise from the ranks ought to be relegated to the ash heap, if such proponents of upheaval are to be believed.

Without holding any particular bias for capitalism and the capitalist we cannot help but deplore a goal of the loose talk which is indulged in, all too frequently, in which the capitalist is held up as the foe of the common man and such terms as "the big interests" and the "big big shots" are used to express contempt, if not hatred, for those who have got along in a competitive world by their own efforts and in which such slogans (not borne out by statistics in the United States and Canada) "the rich are becoming richer and the poor are becoming poorer," pass for currency and are accepted by some as gospel.

It would almost seem as if some of the facts are forgotten; that, for instance, without capital labor could achieve nothing of consequence; that co-operative efforts of capital and labor have made the luxuries of yesterday the necessities of to-day and that inevitably the luxuries of to-day will become the necessities of tomorrow and that nowhere in the world have these achievements approached the zenith as they have in the countries of this continent where free rein has been given to individual effort under a democratic, capital-labor system to an extent as yet unrealized elsewhere in actual practice.

Citing a number of illustrations of men who have risen to important posts in industry J. Lambert Payne writing in the Ottawa Journal refers, among many others, to Walter P. Chrysler, whose story is an extraordinary tribute to these old fashioned virtues, and the late John R. Booth, of Ottawa, and goes on to say:

"Instead of wealth being in the hands of a predatory few, as is often alleged, its diffusion is the salient fact of our time. As a matter of fact in Canada, it is literally in the hands of millions. . . . There is not a trace of cohesion or co-operation among the capitalists (referring to allegations that the big interests combine to thwart the will of the people). Chrysler and Booth had to meet strenuous rivalry at every step in their progress; and for that reason, so patent to the judicial mind, we use a misleading word when we speak of capitalism as a system."

"Moreover," as Mr. Payne points out, "the exorcism of capitalism in certain quarters ignores the fact that it has existed since organized society began, and," he concludes, "will likely persist. Commerce is impossible without it."

And not in industry alone has capital, so far in the history of the world, been one of the two essential factors to civilized progress, but it is also an important element in agriculture. Every farmer is himself an illustration of the co-operative effort of capital and labor, for every farmer is both a capitalist and a laborer. Every man who purchases a half section of land and a line of implements and power to operate them becomes a capitalist and when, in addition to that, he hires a man to operate some of his machinery he places himself in the category of a capitalist employer of labor.

And every farmer who has employed one or more men knows that there must be co-operation and accord between himself and his hired man if both, or either, are to attain maximum results.

It has often been said that there is nothing new under the sun and that is true of efforts to deny capitalism and capital. The same cry has been raised during every depression which has struck industry on the North American continent as was aptly pointed out with, examples, in a recent issue of a popular magazine.

If past history is to be regarded as a guide, it is probably fairly safe to assume that with the return of prosperity, the bailing of what is regarded as "the big interests" will disappear as people become more occupied with efforts to advance their own interests, provided that while they are doing so they are not unkindly of their obligations to others.

In the agricultural west which has been so hard hit recently and in those sections which are still facing the dire results of prolonged drought, the disappearance of ire at capital may be retarded, but the time will in all probability come when the rank and file will look back in retrospect and wonder what it was all about.

Filing Of Fingerprints

Urges Voluntary Filing By The General Public
Voluntary filing of fingerprints by the general public with police should be encouraged, report of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, recently printed, states. Many instances of the value of fingerprints for identification purposes, apart from criminal investigations, have come to light.

"It is certain that at least the travelling public (and who is not a traveller) should be encouraged to file their prints with us for use in case of misfortune," wrote Inspector W. W. Watson, of the fingerprint section.

"During the year we identified two unfortunates simply because of their past criminal records. In one instance we were able to satisfy an insurance company, thus promptly benefiting the beneficiary.

"Only recently a gentleman of perfectly good memory could not find his impressions with us. Possibly many such worry would have been solved in numerous other instances if imprints of certain individuals were available for comparison purposes."

The two "unfortunates" referred to were men found dead on railway tracks. One, found at St. Boniface,

Man., was identified as Steve Ko-

rick whose prints were on record

because he had been convicted in

Port Arthur for assault. The immigration department had further information about the man which enabled them to be taken to identify relationships in Poland.

The other man was found at Belleville, Ont., and his prints were on file because of some offence. He was found to have been a former resident of Ottawa and his father also owned a photograph which was also on file.

There was some insurance claim in his relatives were able to obtain payment.

As usual the fingerprint records of the force were used in many cases of crime, assisting in the tracing of the records of persons arrested and in the police force.

One man was arrested although he took the precaution to wear gloves.

A tear on one of the gloves was investigated. He was Thomas L. Madill and the offence was breaking into a service station at Lindsay, Ont.

Novelist Has Recipes Used By Famous Italian Poisons

There is a bank in London which Carried.

The Secretary was instructed to advise late owners of property recently acquired by the Municipality of the action taken.

Councillor Ellis moved that account of Alberta Sanitarium be tabled. Carried.

TREES AVAILABLE FOR FARMERS

With reference to the very important function of tree planting in Alberta, it was learned in an interview given today by the Honourable N. E. Tanner, Minister of Lands and Mines, that certain species of trees are available to farmers for transplanting in existing bluffs and the extension of windbreaks. These trees may be secured on application to the Forestry Division of the Department.

The principal object in view Mr. Tanner stated, was to provide transplants of the more durable species for planting in natural bluffs, shelterbelts and windbreaks. A number of native varieties now found in existing bluffs are not as durable as desired and the introduction of exotic species will give the desired longer life to these bluffs.

Necessary protection will be given also to the existing trees in providing shade, thus ensuring a healthy and more permanent growth.

The minister stated that there is available for planting in the spring of 1938 a large quantity of lodgepole pine, green ash, and nordan fir and a limited quantity of white spruce and elm. There is also a considerable number of bar and red oak available for distribution. The province has been experimenting with these two latter species for several years, and it is found that they can be successfully grown in Alberta.

To avoid any possible confusion, application forms should be secured from the Director of Forestry, Department of Lands and Mines, Edmonton. These forms should be properly filled out as to quantity and species desired, and should be returned to the Department not later than the end of the present year for trees for planting in the spring of 1938.
